SHIPIBO STORY

Jeff made history in 2012 by becoming the first foreigner ever to be legally adopted by any indigenous tribal family in Peru. The Shipibo-Conibo are an indigenous people found along the Ucayali River in the Amazon rainforest. With Jeff's adoption, he was officially recognized as a member of the Shipibo-Conibo tribe. While integrating with his new family, Jeff was gifted with learning tribal mysticism, rituals and inter-dimensional healing energy from his father (a Toê Shaman) and brother-in-law (an Ayahuasca Shaman) who are both highly respected shaman. In 2015 they officially recognized Jeff as a shaman after observing Jeff's demonstration of his energy healing work on several tribal members with difficult and complicated cases.

TESTIMONIALS

"Jeff Crawford is the real deal. You enter a palpably judgement free zone the minute you meet Jeff. If you're fortunate enough to hear anything about what he's personally been through, and the work he's done to go from survive to thrive, you cannot help but put your full trust in his knowledge and care. ...His abilities will make a difference for you! The Tarot workshop I participated in with Jeff was stellar. His command and intuitive capacity with it is simply astonishing. And there's no unnecessary woo-woo, no "window-dressing". He teaches you to develop an intuitive and highly personal way of using the Tarot. He's so good my wife decided to work with him more intensely as a mentor. Jeff is a modern Shaman supreme."
-Chris Hanckock, LCSW Nashville, TN

"In only two sessions with Jeff, I have experienced healing and have begun to break through barriers to authentic living. Jeff is grounded, compassionate and in tune to the Divine. He is respected within the healing and mental health community. He has great depth of soul, is intuitive and kind. He is the real deal."
-S. Nelson, Nashville TN
